Family discipleship moments are about being observant and prepared to take advantage of opportunities to communicate God's truth whenever circumstances might come your way. Leveraging moments to disciple your children will involve the use of Scripture, and it is important for us to acknowledge the temptation to abuse Scripture to suit our own needs. Family discipleship is not about using Scripture as a means to get your own way, to be made much of or to discourage your children. Remember, much of family discipleship is modeling. In every situation your kids will be looking to you to be the living example of God's truth.

What jumps out to you about this paragraph?

Make a list of the goals you have in the discipleship of your family. Think about what you want them to know and what you want to see formed in them.

How are your everyday interactions with each other working toward those goals? If they aren't currently, how can they?

Can you think of a time you had an unplanned conversation about spiritual matters with your family? How did it go? What could have made it better?

Are there things or habits in the life of your household that could be addressed in a family discipleship moment?

Read Mark 10:35-45
